ASU Extension

What do I need to ...

The Alcorn State University Extension Program serves as a premiere "Center for Excellence" for small farmers, ranchers, and limited-resource audiences. With three locations serving 15, southwest Mississippi counties, the Extension Program is poised to educate and empower citizens throughout the state during times of dynamic change.

Through life-long learning strategies, the Extension Program serves as a proactive, responsive, and collaborative learning organization committed to the growth and development of its targeted clientele. Extension personnel work to improve agricultural-related processes, as well as to strengthen families and communities through the dissemination and application of research-generated knowledge. Leadership techniques, collaborative learning, and organizational strategies are also at the core of the Extension Program's work.

For more information about the Program, its entities, or its personnel, contact the Extension Office at 601.877.6128.
